Bay Council approves taxi service ordinance

BY TRACI BONNEY
The Bay St. Louis City Council unanimously passed, on an emergency basis, a "vehicles for hire" ordinance Tuesday that allows the operation of taxi, limousine and shuttle bus services in the city.

Mayor Edward Favre urged the Council to pass the ordinance with the understanding that any necessary amendments can be made as early as the next regular Council meeting.

"We already have four or five applicants ready to start business. If we don't get something passed soon, it could discourage them," he commented.

The councilmen, in discussing the ordinance, had voiced concerns about several points, including lack of limits to the number of vehicles an operator can have.

City attorney John Scafide said the ordinance allows the mayor to make such determinations when he considers an operator's application to run a service in the city.

Newly elected Council president Jim Thrifflay said, "My concern is that the first guy who comes in here can say, 'Here, I have 25 cars. I want 25 certificates (of public convenience and need), and he can shut out the little guys who might want to start a cab service."

Thrifflay also said he wants the city to be able to reduce "piggy-backing," which might be possible under the ordinance's current language.

He explained that because the ordinance presently levies a fee of $500 for the first three cabs in an operator's fleet and $100 for each cab thereafter, several people could get into business under one operator by paying him $100 per vehicle instead of paying the city the

Waveland sewer/water project nears completion

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Waveland's Mayor and Board of Aldermen were informed Tuesday of the near completion of the current FmHA sewer and water extension project.

The board approved acceptance of areas deemed complete as recommended by city planner Ray Eaton.

The city approved partial pay estimate No. 9, contract 2, to GM&R Construction Company for $18,086.

Discussion of leftover funds from the sewer/water extension project revealed an estimate of $150,000-$100,000 by Eaton.

These funds, Ward 2 Alderman Bob Hubbard stated, could not be used for any work other than sewer and water needs. Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman suggested the city use the funds for road work.

Weidman's repeated questioning of the number of supervisors employed by the city public works department, prompted the board, at Mayor Stella Frilot's urging, to enter executive session for personnel reasons.

The board returned from executive session and stated no action was taken.

The board authorized Keith Mitchell (city building official), Henry Villere and Rick Woo-

Child sexual abuse

More than 200 cases in county in 1991

Related story, Page 2A

BY TRACI BONNEY
Until recently, it wasn't talked about much. Even now, it is a difficult and painful subject for many.

"It is child sexual abuse and incest."

Last year in Hancock County, some 222 child abuse and neglect referrals were investigated by the State Department of Human Services, according to DHS official Dot Robertson. Not all were sexually oriented, but many were, she said.

Since January, Sheriff's Department Investigator Matt Karl has handled all assault cases reported to the department, including sexual abuse and incest reports. He works with DHS on many of these cases.

At the time he was interviewed recently, 10 such cases were pending litigation.

Board okays HMC bonds

BY TRACI BONNEY
The board of supervisors authorized the issuance Tuesday of general obligation bonds for the refinancing of revenue bonds held by Hancock Medical Center.

Of three companies that bid, J.C. Bradford and Co. of Nashville was awarded the contract with a bid of $9,715,000 at an interest rate of 5.962366 percent. The interest rate on the general obligation bonds is almost 50 percent lower than that on the revenue bonds.

The refinancing is expected to save the hospital an estimated $4.8 million on a loan of 20 years or more. Of that, hospital officials anticipate a $1.7 million savings by August 1994.

The supervisors approved several resolutions dealing with the bonds, including one authorizing the issuance of bonds in an amount not to exceed $9,790,000. The extra $75,000 was added at the suggestion of bond attorney Lucien Bourgeois, who said this would allow some space in case the bond needs to be for more than the amount bid, to cover necessary investments for the old revenue bonds.

Hospital board member Rev. Charles Johnson commented, "When you think about the amount, almost $5 million, that would have been going into loan payments, that will instead be available to be put into the hospital, it's kind of hard to visualize how much that will benefit the people of the county. We're grateful for the support the supervisors have given."

Part of the savings will go toward construction of a new outpatient surgery center and the expansion of the hospital's diagnostic and emergency departments.

Book alarm to deter pilferage at Hancock

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
In an effort to reduce theft of library books at Hancock High School, the board approved the installation of a $7,500 tape sensitive alarm system Monday.

Librarian Barbara White reported, during the 1991-92 school year, 117 books have been lost (missing over two years), and 420 are missing. White said the system would assist her in preventing students from leaving the library with books unchecked.

The cost for the computer system will be paid over a period of five years at $1,500 per year. Mike Cunningham of 3M Tattle Tape Security System, stipulated, the cost will include maintenance.

Following the initial five years, a service contract for approximately $475 per year could be purchased for further service assurance.

White stated the system includes a guarantee of 80 percent reduction in loss or 3M will pay $25 per book lost, and a one year satisfaction clause or return of all monies.

She added the cost for the system would be taken from funds budgeted for library use. "I believe we will actually save money, for the cost of replacing the lost and missing books per year is greater than the cost of the system."

Incest*Recovery possible for victims

BY TRACI BONNEY

Local survivors of incest are finding several techniques useful in their recovery processes.

Anne-Marie (not her real name) is one of these survivors. Having been sexually abused in childhood by someone close to her, she repressed the memories until last year.

She started writing poetry and keeping a journal as a catharsis for her hurt emotions, joined the local Survivors of Incest Anonymous group, and began work with a private therapist. Anne-Marie, a born-again Christian, said she also began beseeching God for a healing of the emotional and psychological damage done to her in childhood.

She credits God, her family, her support group and the private counseling sessions — in that order — for the recovery she has achieved so far. However, she said she found that she had gone as far as she could with her first counselor, and started praying for another door to open.

"Through the referral of a caring person, I was introduced to inner healing and regression therapy, but not in a conventional therapist's office," she said. "This time, the therapy is being dealt with totally from a spiritual basis."

The therapy is now being conducted through Rev. June Kirkwood's Truth and Freedom Ministries, an outreach of Renewal Fellowship in Waveland.

Anne-Marie said, "My recovery is now taking giant steps instead of small ones. Prior to this therapy technique, my progress was apparent but limited."

"It's great to be moving forward in such rapid and positive leaps instead of small victories and large setbacks. Believe me, I do know the difference. I'm even planning my future a little at this point, and before, all I could do was remain stuck in my past. My life now has meaning and direction, and I can focus on the positive instead of the negative, debilitating consequences of my abuse."

Anne-Marie plans to take some college classes this fall, and said she is relying on God to show her what career- or vocation-oriented courses she should take.

"I used to say, 'I don't know what I want to be when I grow up,' and although it was said light-heartedly, I really meant it. This was coming from a 48-year-old woman."

"Now I'm 49, and because of the growth that has taken place in the last few months, I can't say that any more. Although I still exhibit some 'childlike' characteristics — and I hope I never lose that quality — I can finally think and plan like an adult who has purpose and meaning."

The SIA group meets every Wednesday at the Bayou Philip Community Center on Hwy. 90 in Waveland. For more information, call Susan (Kathy) Boudreaux at 466-3459, or Barbara at 255-1092. The group will celebrate its first anniversary soon and is planning a get-together that will include food, fun, fellowship and a time of sharing personal triumphs and growth during the past year.

dall to attend the Basic Supervisor in Public Works Program in Gulfport on July 9 and 10 at a cost of $10 each. Weidman voted, "No," calling out an objection to Mitchell being included.

Following adjournment of the meeting, city attorney Lucien Gex was confronted by a resident who shouted at the attorney, "We have the right to know what went on behind those doors."

Gex responded, he could not advise the board to discuss an employee publicly when that person was not present to defend himself.

The board approved a noise ordinance which now gives the police department guidelines on decibel readings.

The ordinance was amended to allow the public address system at Elwood Bourgeois Park a 5-degree higher reading than the average 80 decibels.

The board said as the law is tested in the field, decibel limits could be adjusted as needed. George Baxter of Bayou Caddy Casino, received approval by the board for a letter of non-objection for wastewater disposal at the Waveland Wastewater Treatment Facility.

In other business the board approved: —the selling back of property to Judy Galarza, purchased by Everett Torrence at the county tax sale for $195;

—authorization for Dwight Haskell and Walter Perkins to attend Mississippi Rural Water Association training session in McComb, Miss. on July 8;

—and adoption of the uniform assessment schedule for motor vehicle ad valorem taxes for fiscal year 1992-93.

$500 for three vehicles.

"I don't want the city to be cheated out of that money," he stated.

Although Scaife said he is not sure the city legally can put in writing any limits to the number of vehicles one service can operate, the councilmen maintained their consensus that some type of limitation needs to be included in the ordinance.

The ordinance, passed 5-0, is effective immediately in its present form.

After conducting other city business, the Council adjourned to 5 p.m. July 20.

age, go to the grand jury, while others are prosecuted under misdemeanor charges."

Karl said about 25 cases have gone to court in the past two years. Of those, only one report has listed a male as the victim, he added.

Although Karl was of the opinion that the reports have increased in recent years, Sheriff Ronnie Peterson held a different view. "In the 1970s you didn't hear about such cases that much; in the '80s the reports really increased; and in the '90s it seems like they're leveling off some."

Addressing the matter of misdemeanor versus felony charges, Karl said he wishes the penalties could be stiffened in many areas, especially where children's ages are a factor in labeling the severity of the crime.

"In my opinion, any father or stepfather that would fondle a child or touch them in any sort of wrong way, should go to the grand jury."

County attorney John Genin confirmed Karl's statement about the victim's age being a determining factor in the charge brought against a suspect.

"To say it simply, if the child is under 14 and is improperly touched, it's a felony. If the child is older than 14, penetration or attempted force has to occur for it to be a felony. There are many variations on the labeling of the charge as felony or misdemeanor, but those are the basic guidelines."

Genin said a misdemeanor charge can result in up to six months in jail and/or a $500 fine. Penalties for felony charges vary, depending upon the crime. Rape, for instance, can carry a maximum sentence of life in prison, and consensual sex is still considered rape if the victim is younger than 14.

He added that while many cases go through the grand jury for prosecution, some are routed through Youth Court to protect the child.

Sensitivity is called for at all levels of investigation, not just the court level, Karl said.

He explained that when he handles reports, he has a female clerk at the sheriff's office speak with female victims. He explained that the clerk is trained in how to take the girls' reports and in comforting the victims when it is needed.

Karl and the DHS workers also meet with officials from the South Mississippi Exchange Clubs' Family-Child Center and other child protection agencies once a month to discuss issues, cases and other matters pertinent to their work.

ON PATROL

From Echo Staff Reports

ESCAPEES

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said two trustees who escaped from the Hancock County jail Sunday remained at large Wednesday. Peterson said the two men, neither of whom is considered to be violent, apparently escaped around 4 p.m. Sunday by slipping through a drainage ditch they had enlarged. At large are Anthony J. Halckias, 25, of Lakeshore, and Gene Donald Poss, 22, of Pensacola, Fla.

Halckias, who had pleaded guilty to burglary of an auto and was serving a three-year sentence, is a white male, 5'6", 144 pounds with brown hair and eyes. Poss, who was awaiting trial on charges of grand larceny and malicious mischief, is a white male, 6'2", 150 pounds, with brown hair and eyes. Both men were wearing shorts and dark t-shirts at the time of their escape, Peterson said.

FATAL BOATING ACCIDENT

Peterson also reported the death of a Picayune man Sunday in a boating accident near the Napoleon community.

James Buckley, 31, of Rte. 2 Box 12, was being pulled on a ski board by a boat driven by Larry "Keith" Landrum of Pearlinton when Buckley drew too close to shore and hit a tree about 5 p.m., Peterson said.

Buckley was taken by ambulance to Memorial Hospital in Slidell, La., where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

The Bureau of Marine Resources and the sheriff's department are still investigating, Peterson added.

Peoples Bank announces services reorganization

Peoples Bank President Chevis C. Swetman announced the reorganization of the Trust Department into the Asset Management and Trust Services Department.

"In looking at both national and local levels, we discovered banks have already captured about 50 percent of the trust market. This market is not growing."

"In contrast, the asset management field is a growth area. Banks have only captured a seven percent market there," said Swetman.

Four concepts will be utilized:

—Specialize in management of investment portfolios from $100,000 to $1 million;

—Quality turnkey approach to employee benefit plans;

—Superior asset allocation program for smaller investor; and —Professionally trained staff who can deal with complexities of estate planning.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The temperatures have been steaming for the past week or so.

The Our Lady of the Gulf Crab Festival appeared to have been a big success even with the extreme temperatures.

I have never seen so many people in one place in Hancock County at one time in my life as I saw at the Crab Festival Saturday evening.

It was a mixed crowd of residents and visitors, and everyone appeared to have a good time in spite of the heat.

I enjoyed the good food and entertainment.

I did get a chance to get some fishing in on Monday with my brother Raymond. We managed to catch a few trout and Spanish mackerel.

By the way, have you ever tried using mackerel in courtbouillon. Jane fixed some, and it turned out delicious.

I have always heard about how strong Spanish mackerel are, but that really isn't so if they are prepared fresh.

Since the mackerel were of large size, I was able to take out the red sections.

If you like courtbouillon, try Spanish mackerel, you may like it too.

There appeared to have been a large number of boaters in waters about on Saturday and Sunday.

I have a feeling there were many folks with good sun burns who had to be nursed this week.

I saw several folks whose skin looked very red from the sun over the weekend.

Sun burn sorta sneaks up on people and they realize they are burned when it is too late.

I have learned that it is important to protect one's skin on these days of 90 plus temperatures and high humidity.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

A long time coming

"I wish it were possible to obtain a single amendment to our Constitution. I would be willing to depend on that alone for the reduction of the administration of our government to the genuine principles of its Constitution; I mean an additional article, taking from the federal government the power of borrowing."

—Thomas Jefferson
November 26, 1798

Thomas Jefferson first discussed the importance of an amendment to prohibit Congress from deficit spending in a letter to John Taylor nearly 194 years ago. It was a good idea then, and it's still a good idea today.

There is now, once again, a chance that Congress will take up debate on a balanced budget amendment, and it has been a long time coming.

The first proposed balanced budget amendment was in 1936 and the most recent proposals came on July 17, 1990, in the House of Representatives, and April 14, 1986, in the Senate. All efforts thus far have failed to receive the super majority, or two-thirds, vote required to pass. The most recent 1990 House attempt failed by a margin of 279 to 150, and likewise in the Senate by 66 to 34 in 1986—just one vote shy.

Of course, once an amendment receives a super majority in Congress, it then has to be ratified by three-fourths of the states. And, I think we have just about the best shot ever to get these votes and the ratification necessary to pass this amendment.

It's obvious to me that the Congress is not going to get its act together and be fiscally responsible without additional pressure, and if it's written in the Constitution, you have to do it. Therefore, we should keep this amendment simple and not bog it down with too many details other than fiscal restraint.

I would like to have some serious discussion to limit loopholes which Congress could use as reasons not to honor the balanced budget requirements—such as proclaiming funding "emergencies."

Also, I would like the amendment to make it difficult for the Congress to balance the budget by raising taxes. I would like a three-fifths majority, or 60 votes, in order to raise taxes instead of a simple majority as it now stands.

Raising taxes seems to be the first preference of congress. I think instead we should try to encourage growth through changing tax policies and other actions, and by cutting spending. We should rearrange our priorities before we put more tax burden on the people—the same burden which has created this deficit.

I do think a few years should be allowed for a balanced budget amendment to really work. If we went cold turkey and tried to go to a balanced budget in one year, it would cause disruption in the economy, loss of jobs and fiscal confusion.

But, a planned process over a three or four-year period, as required by a Constitutional amendment, is the right thing to do to move toward a balanced budget.

This is the type of debate and discussion we hopefully will have on Capitol Hill. If nothing else, at least we are going to talk seriously about a balanced budget amendment, and if we're going to amend the Constitution, we better be serious about it.

Congress approves restrictions on China

In a continuing battle over U.S. policy toward China, Congress recently approved a bill to place new conditions on renewing normal trade relations with the Community country. The bill would require China to make "substantial progress" on trade, human rights and reducing its international weapons sales before most-favored-nation trade status could be renewed. Even though the president opposes the added restrictions, I am hopeful he will sign the bill into law. These restrictions are vital to American and South Mississippi interests.

Most Favored Nation (MFN) status allows a country to export certain goods into the U.S. with low or no tariffs. America uses MFN status to grant trade preference to our allies and to selected other nations whose domestic and international policies earn them special consideration.

However, China does not deserve favorable treatment from the United States. These Chinese government has brutally repressed the democracy movement, has exported nuclear weapons technology to nations with anti-American policies and used force prison labor to make several of the products it exports to America.

Moreover, most Americans have not forgotten the Tiananmen Square massacre. When any nation murders its own citizens during a non-violent struggle for democracy, the United States must stand by our ideals of freedom and justice. Americans are still waiting for China's leaders to discuss human rights issues.

China has exported nuclear technology and destabilizing weapons, such as missiles, to the Middle East. For example, Iraq's nuclear program and its use of Scud missiles in the Persian Gulf War are the direct result of Chinese technology. While the U.S. attempts to bring stability to the Middle East and put an end to nuclear technology exports and missile sales to third world countries, China has worked against our efforts time and time again.

Last year, Chinese exports to America came to $15 billion while the U.S. exported $4.7 billion to China. This year the U.S. is expected to have a trade deficit in excess of $100 billion. If China's MFN status is revoked, it would increase tariffs on 92 percent of China's exports to the U.S. If the U.S. is balance its trade deficit and stop the loss of American jobs to unfair trade practices, we need to increase tariffs on foreign products that compete directly with American manufacturing.

Because the Communist government subsidizes its industries and strictly controls wages and prices, China can produce many goods at a much lower cost than we can in America. They also sell at a loss to gain foreign capital.

South Mississippi is directly affected by these practices. Garments manufactured in China compete directly against garments made in towns like Poplarville, Waynesboro, and other South Mississippi communities. These garments are often made with prison labor, are sold below fair market value and make it almost impossible for Mississippi industries to compete.

In short, imports from Communist China are hurting our nation's economy and causing South Mississippians to lose their jobs. As your representative in Washington, I will continue to oppose Most Favored Nation status for China because it's a bad deal for our nation and the people of South Mississippi.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

Benton has helped counties save big dollars

Bob Benton in the mid-1980s devised a great program for counties, cities and the state government as well to save millions of dollars in management of their financial systems by automated data processing.

With cooperation of then-State Auditor Ray Mabius and financial help from Tennessee Valley Authority, Benton got some 28 counties to adopt the system before he bowed out and went back into retirement.

Since then the spread of this project to other counties has pretty much been at a standstill and he figured it was time to give some government officials a nudge to get it going again.

But he is getting a cold shoulder from state Auditor Steve Patterson and no response from Gov. Kirk Fordice's office on putting his cost-saving fiscal management program to use in more counties.

"I was under the impression that they wanted to save money in government, but I haven't been able to get them interested in the project," said the 66-year-old Benton last week.

Benton is an anomaly. He spent 26 years working in Washington D.C. for the Bureau of the Budget and the Government Accounting Office, much of it he says as a "troubleshooter," until he retired in 1982, fed up with the Washington political rat-race.

He wanted to get "as far away from the Washington political environment as I could," and he landed in Noxapater, Miss. (never having been to Mississippi before) where he and his wife bought a farm and set up their new life.

After Mabius was elected State Auditor in 1983, Benton watched him on television talking about his goals for upgrading financial management in county governments. "I figured he needed some help, so I decided to go see him and offer my services," Benton says.

What resulted was a deal Benton made with Mabius to work without pay, and only his actual living expenses in Jackson would be covered. Also, he would be unanswerable to anyone in the Department of Audit.

Drawing on his old contacts in the federal government, Benton was able to shake loose $350,000 from TVA and get the agency to loan some of its key budgetary people to draw a program for computerized financial management adaptable to counties and cities in the TVA area.

The idea was to help the Mississippi counties, many of them still using single-entry ledger books and hand posted accounting records (some keeping them in a shoe box) to implement a computerized system that standardizes financial management functions.

For the first time, counties could have a basis for comparing their operations and costs with other counties. County budgets could be realistically compared to actual expenditures. If any function of county government attempted to exceed its budget, a red flag would immediately come up.

Benton started pilot projects of the system in Monroe, Kemper and Tallahatchie counties, helping them get the software (and even getting a computer company to donate one computer) through the TVA grant which was put under a private arm called VISA, Valley Information Systems Association.

Monroe County is a prize example of how the financial management can work. Chancery Clerk Howard Moon said, "It has saved us a bundle of money, and has immeasurably increased the availability of data for the county governing authorities to make more intelligent decisions."

In Hinds County, one of the counties (together with the city of Jackson) to later adopt the system, just one reform—combining of property tax bills into one statement for both county and city taxes rather than two separate bills—eliminated need for 22 employees.

If all counties could be put into the standardized computer system, says Benton, someone in the State Auditing Department could punch a button and verify the basic annual audit figures for each county without taking long hours for a field auditor to do it.

When Benton dropped out in late 1986 after his two-year voluntary "job" with Mabius, it was because he feared he was about to be drawn into the political scene with Mabius now a candidate for governor. "I felt I was being put back into the political environment and I didn't want to be," he says.

Now living in Madison, Miss., Benton still chuckles about how he was viewed with great suspicion by politicians who thought he must have some secret agenda. "But I didn't, and they found that hard to believe."

How well do you score in the consumer literacy test?

In consumer literacy testing done by the Consumer Federation of America and American Express high school seniors scored an average of only 42 percent. The test was made up of 52 questions in the areas of credit, checking and savings accounts, automobile purchases and insurance, housing rentals, and food purchases. Below is a sampling from each of the consumer categories.

1) Credit
If a credit card account has a balance carried over from the previous month, when will interest charges usually begin on a new credit purchase?

- a) the day of purchase
- b) one month after purchase
- c) after 2-week grace period
- d) after 2-month grace period

2) Checking/Savings Accounts
Which deposit account usually pays the MOST interest?

- a) Certificate of Deposit
- b) Passbook saving account
- c) NOW account
- d) Money market account

3) Auto Insurance
Auto insurance prices offered by different insurance companies to people who live in the same area, have the same accident history, and drive the same type of auto can vary by as much as

- a) 100% or more
- b) about 60%
- c) about 30%
- d) 10% or less

4) Housing Rental
If a lease on an apartment is acceptable except for one objectionable clause, it is usually best for the tenant to

- a) sign the lease
- b) sign the lease and then file complaint with tenant union
- c) ask landlord to verbally agree not to enforce the clause
- d) ask the landlord to strike the objectionable clause

5) Food Purchases
The ingredients on food labels are listed

- a) alphabetically
- b) by nutritional importance, most to least
- c) any order manufacturer chooses
- d) by weight, most to least

6) Car Purchases
Car service contracts are intended to pay for

- a) rental car charges while owner's car is being repaired
- b) repairs not covered by the warranty
- c) repairs made under the car warranty
- d) repairs resulting from an accident

ANSWERS

1) When old purchases have been fully paid, on new purchases made with a credit card, the buyer has a grace period of 3-4 weeks to make the payments before interest is charged. But when a balance, however small, is carried over from the previous month, on these new purchases buyers usually must begin paying interest on the day of purchase.

2) a. At almost all banking institutions, a certificate of deposit (CD) pays more interest than does a NOW account, savings account, or money market account. But depositors have restricted access to their funds until the CD matures.

3) a. Most surveys show that, for the same consumer, auto insurance rates charged by different insurers vary by more than 100% and sometimes by as much as 300-400%. Comparison shopping for this insurance can lower consumer costs substantially.

4) d. The typical lease is a complicated legal document that emphasizes landlord rights and tenant obligations. But sometimes a landlord will strike out an offensive provision, so it is usually worthwhile for tenants to make this request.

5) d. The ingredients on food labels are listed by weight, from the most to the least. So, if cereal lists sugar as first ingredient, there is more sugar than grain in the cereal.

6) b. These contracts supplement warranties by paying for some repairs that are not covered by the warranties. But almost all of the service contracts are greatly overpriced.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. The fishin' this past week can be described in one word—spectac-u-incredible. At least that is the word I have been receiving from the fish camps in the area, and all other salt water spots that people usually fish. The exception to these reports is those people who normally fish in their bath tubs are still not catching any fish, but those people are weird anyway.

The folks from LaFrance fishin' camp report they had a bumper crop of fishermen and fish. They attribute all of this action to the fish being all over the place and to the new rules that have allowed fishermen that fish in Louisiana waters, with a valid Louisiana fishing license, to bring in Louisiana legal fish to the dock, as long as these fishermen do not stop and fish anywhere in Mississippi waters. This new law went into effect on July 1, 1992.

The really important thing to remember about this new law is: You can bring in Louisiana legal fish only if you have a valid Louisiana fishing license and you did not fish in Mississippi waters at any time during your current fishing trip.

As long as we are on the subject of new laws it seems that some folks misunderstand the new Mississippi law on trout. What the law says is you can keep five trout of a minimum length of 12 inches in your daily bag limit of 25 trout.

If you keep your five trout of 12 inches, the balance of the trout in your daily bag limit must be over 14 inches.

Nowhere in the new law does it say you can keep trout under 12 inches in length. It is important to remember and to observe this new law, as it took 3,000 signatures on petitions and a lot of hard conscientious work by Rep. J. P. Compretta and others to force this compromise into law. The previous law would not have allowed any speckled trout under 14 inches, and effectively closed down wade fishing.

Back to LaFrance. They report that Half Moon, Grassy Island and the Marsh have been producing all of the fish action you might want or need on live shrimp under a popping cork.

Live shrimp are plentiful at their camp, but you gotta' use special care to keep them alive for any period of time. Remember to keep the water cool and well aerated.

Another tip I forgot to mention is that the less you handle live shrimp, the longer they will stay alive. So, a small bait net is well worth the trouble in the effort to keep your live shrimp live.

Bordages fish camp owner Tommy Bordages reported more fishermen than he has seen in a "month of Sundays" this past week. Virtually all fishermen have returned to his dock with fish. Most of the fish were caught in the early morning hours with the mid-day period being very slow.

Bordages said, he thinks the slow fishin' mid-day period has something to do with the heat. No-huh. It seems the fish can't find enough oxygen in the shallow waters when the outside temperature is 150 degrees (at least that is how hot it feels). When it gets this hot, the fish tend to find a nice cool spot in deep water and lie nice and quiet. This sounds just like people.

Wade fishin' is producing some nice fish in the early morning and the late afternoon. Remember that you gotta' go out to the last sand bar in water at least three feet deep to have any chance at all of catching any fish. A rule of thumb is that you gotta' go out deep enough to feel cool water on your feet and lower legs.

Best bait is still live shrimp and live mullet.

This week's wonderful wise words: Make sure you put plenty of water inside your body when you go out on the water. Noon time is siesta time, turtle.

Gulf sturgeon info sought

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is seeking help in a program to restore the threatened Gulf sturgeon to its range in the coastal rivers and Gulf of Mexico.

People who have ever seen or caught sturgeon in the streams or Gulf, regardless of how long ago, are asked to contact the agency about when and where they saw the fish.

The Fish and Wildlife Service and the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission are developing the sturgeon recovery-management plan and need to know in what coastal waters and streams the fish are, or were, found.

"Our goal is to reduce habitat degradation and increase sturgeon populations," said project leader Gail Carmody.

Sturgeon, a relic of prehistoric ages, were once plentiful, but construction of dams, water pollution, habitat destruction, pesticides, and overharvest all contributed to their decline. Last year, the Gulf sturgeon was listed as a threatened species.

Anyone who has current or historic knowledge of the presence of Gulf sturgeon in coastal streams and marine waters of the Gulf is asked to provide information about when and where the fish were seen or caught to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 1612 June Avenue, Panama City, Fla. 32405. Information may be called in, collect, to area code 904-769-0552.

Ask the Veteran's Service Center

Submitted by Donald Mauffray
Veterans Service Officer

Q. As a widow of a veteran, I draw a Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) based on myself and my daughter. My daughter will be 18 this month. When will she be eligible for DIC benefits in her own right?

A. The effective date of eligibility is the first month following the 18th birthday, provided your daughter is attending a VA-approved school and is unmarried. The upper age limit is 23.

Q. Does the VA offer special mortgage insurance for veterans?

A. A veteran may purchase Veterans Mortgage Life Insurance if he or she has received a grant for specially adapted housing.

Q. My GI insurance policy lapsed three years ago. How many premium payments must I make up in order to be reinstated?

A. You must make two payments: one for the month in which the policy lapsed, and one for the month in which it is reinstated.

Q. Is the VA claim number identical to the veterans social security number?

A. A veteran who filed an initial benefit before 1974 will have a VA claim number. A veteran who filed after 1974 will be identified by his or her social security number. There are, however, two exceptions. Veterans who file for vocational rehabilitation are always assigned a VA claim number. Applications for a VA home loan guaranty are assigned a home loan application number, separate from either the claim or social security number.

Q. I am attending the U. S. Air Force Academy. If I am disabled during my schooling, will I be eligible for VA disability pension?

A. Veterans who are disabled by injury or disease during active duty may be eligible for disability compensation. VA considers attendance at a military academy as active duty for compensation purposes.

Q. Can a veteran get a VA-guaranteed loan to purchase a condominium unit?

A. Yes, provided the unit is located in a condominium complex approved by the Department of Veterans Affairs.

I received a Certificate of Eligibility for a VA home loan guaranty several years ago but never had the opportunity to use it. Have my benefits expired?

A. Loan guaranty entitlement is not subject to an expiration date.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

"Life is just a bowl of cherries"—or blueberries or peaches or grapes or bananas, or some other delicious fresh fruit, judging by the colorful and tasty selections at our area super markets and farmers' markets these early July days.

Cantaloupe or watermelon "bowls" (or slices or chunks) come in for their share of attention as well. One of my favorite finales to a meal is a cantaloupe half, filled with scoops of ice cream or sherbert and topped off with a cascade of berries. How about you?

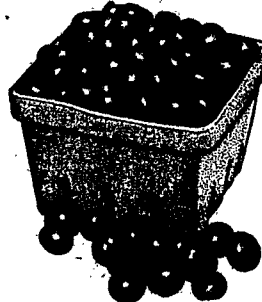

If you haven't already started enjoying those home grown Mississippi blueberries, you're missing a treat. Most of us are familiar with blueberry muffins and coffee cake—but, have you tried blueberry pancakes with their own blueberry sauce for a lazy summer breakfast or brunch—or supper, for that matter? Try:

BLUEBERRY PANCAKES 'N' BLUEBERRY SYRUP

(For the pancakes, simply add the berries to your favorite pancake batter). And, for the sauce:

- 2 cups fresh blueberries
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 1 Tbsp. fresh lemon juice
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla extract

Wash and crush the berries. Add the sugar, lemon juice and salt, mixing well. In saucepan, bring to the boiling point, and continue boiling for just one minute, add the vanilla, stir and let cool. When chilled, this is also an excellent topping for puddings, cakes or ice cream. (Makes 1 1/2 cups).

Another tasty treat is: BLUEBERRY COBBLER
2/3 to 1 cup sugar
2 Tbsp. cornstarch
3/4 cup water
3 cups fresh blueberries, cooked

1 Tbsp. butter or margarine
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/3 cup milk
3 Tbsp. salad oil
Mix the sugar and cornstarch in a saucepan, stir in the water and boil for a minute, stirring constantly, then add the berries and pour into a 1 1/2 quart baking dish. Dot with butter or margarine, and sprinkle cinnamon over.

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Combine the milk and oil, and add to the dry mixture, stirring with a fork until the mixture forms a ball. Drop by spoonfuls onto the berries, and bake at 425 degrees for 25 or 30 minutes, or until lightly browned. (Six servings).

There are all sorts of excellent buys in fresh vegetables, too, especially in corn and tomatoes—on, those "real vine-ripened tomatoes." Fryer breasts are a bargain, as are fryer leg quarters. Beef cuts are offered at special prices, as are pork cuts, especially spare ribs from small to large. Enjoy!
